

Bovine Trichomoniasis is a venereal disease of cattle that costs Oklahoma cattle producers over five million dollars each year. Because of the seriousness of the disease ODAFF will begin enforcing regulations that require the testing of bulls changing ownership within the state on January 1, 2011.

The links below contain information that we hope will be useful to you in learning about the disease and the new regulations.

If you have questions, please call Dr. Rod Hall at 405-522-6126 or email to rod.hall@oda.state.ok.us

Trichomoniasis Informational Article #1

Oklahoma State University Cooperative Extension Service Trichomoniasis Fact Sheet

Trichomoniasis FAQ

Virgin Bull Affidavit

(suggested form only for the agreement between sellers and purchasers of bulls less than 24 months of age)